Committee Appoints Strnad To Edit 1st Term Gateway

Linda Strnad, a 19-year-old junior, will edit the 1960-61 Gateway. Her appointment was announced Tuesday by the Board of Student Publications.

Miss Strnad, currently society editor of the Gateway, has served as reporter, society reporter and makeup editor. She was editor of her South High School newspaper and was a World-Herald Scholar.

Miss Strnad is a journalism major with an area of concentration in English and education.

Charter president of the campus YWCA, she has been secretary of junior panhellenic council and is presently historian of Sigma Kappa Sorority. A 3.52 average places her in Alpha Lambda Delta.

Her plans for next year include continued freedom of the Gateway, crusades for more letters to the editors, and more student opinion voiced.

"I am pleased with Miss Strnad's prospects for next year," said Lowell Baumer, retiring editor for the past two semesters. "I'm sure the Gateway will be in most competent hands."

As a final note the enthusiastic future editor quipped: "I swore I'd never work on student publications again. But things never work out do they?"

Miss Strnad . . . continued freedom for Gateway.

Caps, Gowns, Banquets, Fees In Store for Busy Graduates

Caps, gowns, banquets, dances, fees for this and that, convocations and receptions.

These familiar items to the 425 graduating this year perhaps need a little elaboration.

The senior class assessment, covering the class gift and banquet, is $5. If you're married and want to bring the wife or hubby, make it $7.50. This assessment is due by May 13 and is payable to class treasurer Barbara Brunell, 6042 S. 34th Street, MA 3254.

The banquet starts at 6:30 p.m., Saturday, May 21, in the Student Center and is followed by the dance at 9 p.m.

Senior day is at 10:45 a.m., May 20. All seniors will meet near the east end of the first floor.

Caps and gowns will be available in the bookstore on the afternoon of May 19 or the morning of the 20th. Caps and gowns should be returned by 4:30 p.m., May 20.

The Baccalaureate Convocation will be at 6 p.m., Sunday, June 5 in the University Stadium. Caps and gowns may be picked up on Thursday or Friday, June 2 or 3.

At 4:30, June 5, a trial run of the commencement will be held.

A reception will immediately follow the Baccalaureate service. All graduates and family are invited.

Commencement convocation will be in the Stadium at 5 p.m., Monday, June 6. The procession must be led by 4 p.m.

Registrar Alice Smith said all correspondence course grades must be in by May 27.

Honors Banquet

ODK Honorary Men's Fraternity, Waokiya, women's honorary and Corinthians will hold their annual honors banquet Friday, May 20, at 7:00 p.m.

Guest speaker will be Dr. James Perry Tollman, Dean of the Nebraska Medical School. He is professor of pathology and superintendent of the University Hospital.

The banquet will honor new initiates of the honor organizations. Alumni of and sponsors of the organizations are also invited. The banquet will be in the student center.

Labor-Management Relations Conference Scheduled at OU

University business majors have taken a big step forward in the promotion of a better understanding of management in the business world. In conjunction with the College of Adult Education, the Collegiate Chapter, Society for Advancement of Management, College of Business Administration, will present a Labor-Management Relations Conference, Saturday, May 21.

The conference on campus idea was presented to Dean Donald Emery, CAE, in March. The discussion covered several problems. Primarily, would local business men and union officials support the program?

First OU Conference

Chapter members contacted various industrial and labor representatives. "There were very enthusiastic about the proposal," said Chapter President, Larry R. Larsen. "The efforts and cooperation of all concerned have made possible the first labor-management conference at OU."

Included in the program will be a welcoming address by President Milo Ball and a discussion of future labor-management relations by Dr. Walter L. Daykin, Professor of Labor and Management, State University of Iowa.

Public Program

Other conference activities will include a panel discussion of "Causes of Industrial Peace" by Elmer Dowell, National Representative, AFL-CIO; Richard Nisely, President, Nebraska AFL-CIO; James Herron, Manager of Industrial Relations, Vickers, Inc., and Jack Kaufman, Asst. Supr., Ind & Labor Rel., Western Electric.

The program, open to the public, will be conducted in the Adult Education Conference Center in the Gene Eppley Library. Persons planning to attend are urged to register in advance with the CAE. Enrollment fee is $6.00.

Registration for Summer, Fall Ends

Pre-registration for summer and fall classes ends this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Miss Alice C. Smith, OU Registrar, expects a last minute rush of students as in years gone by.

At Gateway deadline time, pre-registration was moving along at the same pace as last year with 1000 students registered for summer school work and 1500 signed up for next fall.

Miss Smith pointed out that this early registration, in effect here for the past eight years, is provided solely as a service to students now attending OU. "We feel that students in school have the right to choose their hours for the summer semester and next fall, especially since many work," she said.

The pre-registration opportunity gives students more free time between semesters, enables them to avoid the long-lines of regular registrations and doesn't cost a penny extra. Students pay $10 in advance but this is credited to their regular fees.

Regular registration for both summer sessions is on June 10 from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. and on Saturday, June 11, from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon.

As many students already know, the number of registration forms has been cut from three to two, which should cut down the writer's cramp complainers. Some schools have eight times as many forms to be filled out.

This one-third reduction in forms was made possible through the addition of a special BEARDOWN form with five copies. Students should take the hint and bear down. The extra carbon form goes to the new student center offices.

The Gateway wondered how many students were taking advantage of the two summer semesters in order to complete undergraduate work and posed the question to Miss Smith. She said, "There are a few who take advantage of this opportunity, but it is not very popular."

Dean of Student Personnel Jay B. MacGregor explained that there was terrific pressure during the war to rush people through college, but, now, the main consideration of most students is meeting expenses.

"One boy I talked to made $1,300 last summer to finance this year's work," Dean MacGregor added.

"Personally I feel there is more to getting an education than piling up courses. It should also be a period of growth and enjoyment," he explained.

"Unless there is a crisis and a need develops, Dean MacGregor stated, I do not encourage the practice of three years of college."

TV Cruise for Ragan's Sailors

The good ship Reluctant, affectionately named "The Bucket" by her theatrical crew, will pass before OU's closed circuit TV cameras on Sunday, May 15.

"Mr. Roberts," the second play from the Great White Way to be presented here, will be viewed in the department's monitoring room, Applied Arts Building at 8:30 p.m. Due to limited space, the audience will be restricted to invited guests.

George Ragan, journalism major, is directing the cast in their portrayal of home-made spice versus cargo ship boredom. Members are Carol Robinson, Don Burgrabe, John Slane, Woody Menger, Ron Bojanski, Bill Jardine, Eric Underwood, John Harding, and Jim Edwards.

Wind, Rain Brings Ma-ie Day Confusion, Eliminates Floats

A rainy, windy Ma-ie Day, May 6, forced the breakfast into the Fieldhouse, but the parade continued—minus four floats.

Four of the five floats in the parade, Alpha Xi Delta, Chi Omega, Lambda Chi Alpha, and Sigma Phi Epsilon, were completed in the Fieldhouse. The Sigma Kappa float was constructed off-campus.

According to Lee Perkins, Student Council president, no plans had been made in case of rain. "I suggested cancelling the parade," he said, but Dean Don Pflasterer was opposed because students had spent so much money on floats and car decorations," he continued.

The Council sent messages at

Kautter Receives $50 Radio-TV Scholarship

A fifty-dollar scholarship was awarded to an Omaha University radio-TV major last night at the Omaha Area T.V. Council awards dinner at the Blackstone hotel.

He was Bill Kautter, 21-year-old senior at the University and career man for WOW-TV.

Dr. Aldrich Paul, head of the speech department, made the award.

The fifty dollars was given to the University by the Omaha Area TV Council as an annual gift. The University in turn turned it over to Kautter in form of a scholarship.

9 a.m. to the five groups which built their floats off campus.

The groups had two choices: to stay where they were until judged or enter the parade to be judged later."

Sigma Kappa, Tau Kappa Epsilon and Theta Chi said they did not receive such instructions. Sigma Kappa entered the parade and the other four waited for judges to arrive.

The parade ran from 11:30 to 12:30.

Pi Kaps and Zetas were judged at 12:15; Tau Kappa Epsilon, 12:30; Theta Chis, 2, and Sigma Kappa 4 p.m. Theta Chis, Tekes and Sigma Kappa said they were judged by only two of three judges.

Winners were Alpha Xi Delta, first place, Chi Omega, second, and Zeta Tau Alpha, third.

President Perkins said the Council will make recommendations for an alternate schedule in the event it rains next year.

Special Election To Be Held Mon.

The Student Council will hold a special election next Monday for the purpose of breaking a tie between Lonnie Hansen and Sheila Dunklau, candidates for senior Student Council.

The election will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Student Organizations Room, Student Center.

Bootstrappers to Hold Book Sale

The Pen and Sword (Bootstrap Organization) will go into the bookstore window to display promotional material.

The goal for the drive is $1000. The club needs $5,000 to make the investment self-sustaining. The sales from the book drive and the present treasury will augment the final sum needed.

Publicity Chairman for Pen and Sword is William F. Koeckert.

Bonner Stresses Importance Of Soviet Educational Zeal

By Bill Jardine

"There is cause for alarm as education is concerned."

These were the words last Tuesday night of Dr. Thomas H. Bonner, head of the Social Science department at Omaha University. Bonner, lecturing at the final meeting of the Great Professor Series, was speaking on the subject, "Russian Schools and Ours."

"From all reports," Bonner said, "there is nothing comparable to the zeal which the Russians are approaching education."

In comparing our system to theirs the single most important difference is a greater seriousness and commitment to education on the part of the Soviets. The Russians are working much harder to make their system work."

Shift Emphasis

Bonner said that defenders of our educational system are wrong in failing to recognize that this is a supreme national crisis. "We must shift our emphasis to math, physics and science, and I say this as a social science teacher," he added.

"In our school system," he said, "we need more dedication, hard work, money, fewer distractions and more rewards. There should be less of an attitude that school is fun and studies are secondary, and more of an attitude that school needs to be business."

Bonner pointed out that the Russian school system was created only thirty years ago.

"In 1917 ninety per cent of the Russian people were illiterate," he said. "There were few schools, many were without funds. Out of that they created a school system second to none in all of Europe. In a few years it will be second to none anywhere in the world."

Calculus in 10th Year

Bonner explained that education process often starts at the age of one in Russia. Children from the ages of one to three are eligible for nurseries, he said. Here great stress is placed on child care and health.

From the age of four to six they are sent to kindergarten where they are given exercises in socialization, physical education and numbers.

The formal education period starts at the age of seven, he said, and the greatest emphasis is placed on math. "By the end of their ten-year school period they have learned Math up to Calculus."

"The Russian student has had more training in math, biology, chemistry and physics in their ten years of school than our students have had in twelve," Bonner said.

Greeks Hit Ma-ie Day Snafu As Four Floats Miss Parade

Dear Editor:

PREDICTION: MA-IE DAY "has had it" . . . UNLESS . . .

1. The Student Council revises the program (if they have one) used to regulate the building and judging of floats, and then enforces the program.

2. The Student Council can name two good reasons why campus organizations should spend hundreds of dollars and even more hours to build floats under existing conditions.

FACT: The latter of these two points would be impossible to carry out, under the present conditions, due to the poor organization and small amount of applied thought which has been used by the Council concerning Ma-ie Day activities.

FACT: The first also draws a blank, because the Council proved rather conclusively May 6, that it couldn't enforce the law, even if it tried which it didn't.

SUGGESTION: That the rules of float building state that the floats shall be judged before, during and after the parade on all points, regardless of weather conditions unless all floats can be judged on some equal basis to the satisfaction of the organizations concerned.

SUGGESTION: That no awards be presented in the case that all floats could not be judged under equal conditions.

SUGGESTION: That all rules, or alternate plans, pending or otherwise, should be made known to all the floatbuilders before building begins and that all rules be enforced to their fullest extent.

POSSIBILITY: If enough constructive changes are made in Ma-ie Day policy, those organizations which would otherwise abstain from building floats in the future may reconsider their position and help make Ma-ie Day the holiday it should be.

Five Float 'Game'

Dear Editor:

Our organization has written a formal protest against the Student Council concerning its handling of Ma-ie Day. The whole day was a farce to say the least.

Weather conditions cannot be used as a scapegoat for the mix-up since rain had been forecast long before Ma-ie Day. A lack of communications was the effect—not the cause—of a hap-hazard effort by our "representative" council.

The 30 points to be given for "workmanship" in the float judging lost out somewhere in this "game" played by the only five floats in the parade—the only five that should have merited these 30 points at all.

But when a student governing body whose rules are supposed to be fair awards prizes in a case where there has been no contest—this is called fair and democratic.

In the future the Student Council would do well to prepare for adverse weather conditions and publish rules concerning this. As for a communications system, why not do as other colleges do and have a float committee—one from each organization entered—responsible to the Council and acting as a liaison between the Council and the groups?

Sigma Kappa Keglers Take Women's Title

Women's intramural bowling has been completed with Alpha Xi Delta finishing first, Sigma Kappa coming in second, and Chi Omega taking third place.

The high team game for the season was 600 bowled by Sigma Kappa and the high team series was 1663 also by Sigma Kappa.

Connie Claussen, bowled the high individual game of 200 and the high individual series of 528.

The individual average for the season was 130 bowled by Georgia Clark of Sigma Kappa.

Dear Editor:

The Ma-ie Day parade is probably the largest blot on O.U.'s social calendar that has occurred in many a year. When four floats are not able to participate in the parade and some are told to wait for the judges and some are told not to; when the judges are disgusted before they judge the remaining floats in the afternoon after the parade is over, something is wrong. Three years ago the parade was postponed because of the weather, why was it not this year?

The lines of communication were worse than the Civil War. No one on that fatal day would take the responsibility.

One thing is for sure, unless the organization of this day is improved with complete understanding by all participating, the parade will dwindle to nothing. I speak for Tau Kappa Epsilon, the members, their parents, and friends, and the treasurer who gave money to a float that joined seven blocks behind the parade, 30 miles per hour on the way back to O.U. Some floats were not that lucky.

'Sterile' Center

Dear Editor:

Having attended other universities and having visited several others, we notice some disturbing facts about "our" new Student Center Building.

We wonder why this is the only university, to our knowledge, that feels it necessary to have gestapo agents, chaperones, hostesses, or call-them-what-you-wills in every student-populated room in the Center. Their only purpose seems to be to insure that tables are not used, that the piano is not played, and that the inconvenient, thievry-promoting book and coat racks are used.

It seems a shame that such a beautiful new building should be rendered completely sterile by the above absurdities.

We do not feel, as the administration must, that OU students are intentional vandals. We do feel that our students are adult enough to need no supervision.

We also feel that OU will never lose its popular name of "West Dodge High" until some of the Junior High School rules governing the students are brought up to the same high plane as the academic standing of the University.

Barbara Swanson Seeks Engineering Degree Housewife Moves Into Male-Dominated Field

By Carol Sue Child

"if nothing else, I can build my own houses!"

a senior in business. He does part-time private contracting.

Thirteen hours of statistics, physics, cost accounting and metal machining make up Mrs. Swanson's college "load" (She's a home-maker too, remember).

She doesn't mind at all sitting in classrooms full of men, being lectured by men. "Physics is my only class with women in it," Mrs. Swanson related.

What does she plan to do after graduation with her engineering education? And how many engineering opportunities are open for women?

"I plan to graduate in January 1961, but—" She said. (At this point the possibility loomed larger than the probability to her. "My husband and I will stay in Omaha a year than move to California." She has no idea yet what she'll do here in Omaha or in California. "I haven't even looked that far ahead," the aspiring engineer added.

Offers to do drafting work she's had. "But I'm not too excited about them, she said. There should be higher jobs for good women engineers. But maybe I won't have to work after all, who knows?"

Standing up for engineering courses for women, Mrs. Swanson said, "I believe it's good for anyone to take some engineering courses."

Listen, all you coeds, if you want to improve your reasoning and logical thinking! But, remember, coeds that do jump into the "man's field" will find it a long hard pull and lots of work, she assured.

This is the B-52. Advanced as it may be, this airplane has one thing in common with the first war-galleys of ancient Egypt... and with the air and space vehicles of the future. Someone must chart its course. Someone must navigate it.

For certain young men this presents a career of real executive opportunity. Here, perhaps you will have the chance to master a profession full of meaning, excitement and rewards... as a Navigator in the U. S. Air Force.

To qualify for Navigator training as an Aviation Cadet you must be an American citizen between 19 and 26½—single, healthy and intelligent. A high school diploma is required, but some college is highly desirable. Successful completion of the training program leads to a commission as a Second Lieutenant... and your Navigator wings.

Baseballers Confident and Determined For NAIA Tournament Championship

By Dick Sheehan

Determination, hard work and the will to win!

Perhaps a trite motto—but it works!

The Indian baseball team is living up to expectations, and if last year's record holds any promise for the future, this year certainly won't be disappointing.

This season the team has one goal that surpasses any other—Take the NAIA Championship!

Don't think it can be done?

Just talk to any of the players—they're confident.

But, what about this year?

Can't exactly say the Indians are slouching.

Statistics-wise, here's the way things stack up.

After a 14 game slate, OU has 12 wins and two losses.

St. Cloud (2-1) and St. Benedict's (6-5) were the nemesis.

In team statistics, the Indians lead in all but three categories.

Biggest edge is in runs. (101-45)

Batting average gives OU a .245 compared to the opponents .157.

The Indians lead in total bases. (124-78)

In hits we have a 92-56 lead and runs-batted-in (79-30) also give the diamond crew a good lead on the rest of the pack.

OU is behind in third base hits and walks, and is tied in strikeouts.

This has been accomplished with a green but ambitious crew, practically void of veterans.

Today, the Indians meet Emporia in the Hornet's home state.

Aden, Miller Hurl Indians To 14-5 Conquest of Drake

A 14-5 victory over Drake Tuesday night put the Indian baseball-ers even closer to the NAIA Tournament.

Ace freshman hurler Dave Aden allowed only two hits in the first four innings, building a 12-0 lead.

When OU's freshman southpaw Parry Miller took over, Aden had a four-hit, six-strikeout, one walk tally.

Trying to protect a 13-1 lead, he gave only three singles and struck out 12. But five walks, a hit batsman and an error allowed Drake four runs in the last two innings.

Bulldog hurlers didn't fare so well.

Gary Eden allowed seven runs on five hits in 1 2/3 innings.

Fleet-footed shortstop Joe Neuberger slugged two triples in five times at bat, while Larry Kozeny rapped a triple and single.

Jack Vaccaro managed a double and single in three trips to the plate.

Vaccaro and Kozeny are running a tight race for batting leadership.

At week's end, the tally stands at 12 wins against two losses, as the Indians meet Emporia in the Hornets' home state tonight.

Softball Lead Held By Casey's Crew

Casey's Crew Monday downed the Sig Eps 6 to 5 to crack a tie for first place in the intramural softball standings.

It was the Sig Eps first loss of the season while Casey's Crew has yet to be defeated.

In Monday's other game at Elmwood Park the Pi Kaps nudged Theta Chi 9 to 8. The victory put the Pi Kaps in the fifth slot. Theta Chi slipped to a sixth place tie with the Uni-Vets.

The Sig Eps, Tekes and Untouchables were knotted in second place with 4-1 records.

Standings as of May 10

	W	L
Casey's Crew	5	0
Sig Eps	4	1

Undefeated Theta Chi Leads Golf Standings

Theta Chi Monday was leading the intramural golf race with a 2-0 record.

John Gaffney has the low individual score. The Lambda Chi duffer fired a 40 on the Fontenelle Park nine May 3. Par is 36.

Two Bootstrapper teams and the Sig Eps Monday were in a three-way tie for second place.

Track Meet Draws Six Entries So Far

Six teams have entered the intramural track meet slated for May 11-12. Intramural Director Bert Kurth said Tuesday.

The outfits signed up are Theta Chi, Sig Eps, Pi Kaps, Tekes, Lambda Chi and Casey's Crew.

At least five unaffiliated students have entered the carnival, Kurth said.

However, Casey's Crew is trying to pull the unaffiliated tracksters into their bunch, Kurth said.

He said he expects some 50 students to participate in the track meet.

The Backlash—

Here We Go Again

Like they say in the advertising world—we hoisted it up to the top of the mast to see how many saluted.

Not many did.

So this time we'll fold it up and fly it around the room and see where it lands.

Early this semester a Backlash questioned the desirability of continuing the OU-Creighton basketball series. It was suggested that the spread between the class of ball played by the two schools was a little too great to justify terming the relationship a "hot rivalry."

With the release of Creighton's 1960-61 schedule, we beg another hearing.

It can be granted that the Bluejays are still some distance from the level that have announced they are striving for.

But a glance at the upcoming program can well be interpreted as the "shape of things to come." It doesn't take a second glance to conclude that this just isn't our league.

Illinois and Iowa are scheduled in December and Purdue meets the Jays on the fourth of January.

Those three all belong to the same conference and it ain't the CTC, pardner.

Look a little further. There's Colorado on December 17th. Midland and Washburn aren't in their conference, either.

Then there's St. Louis (saw that name among the top 20 in the country through most of last season) and DePaul; and Providence (you may have seen them playing in the National Invitational Tournament finals on TV a month or ago); and Duquesne and Dayton; and Marquette and Notre Dame.

Then there's two games with OU.

Now we don't care if the Indians want to take on the Boston Celtics or anybody else but in Creighton there exists an inescapable situation.

So long as we and they are situated as we are, it will be referred to as a "crosstown rivalry." And its downright discouraging to both the school and the team to tangle with tigers in a fight in which the odds ought to be somewhere near equal.

Recent years have seen those odds get pretty top-sided and from all indications they're going to get even loppier.

In expressing this opinion we haven't lost sight of a couple factors that lie on the other side of the balance.

Number one—there's the money involved. Although last season's meetings didn't overstuff the tills, it certainly doesn't mean that a game between the two teams couldn't sometimes be quite profitable.

Secondly—a win in this David-Goliath relationship makes everyone feel good and provides something to shoot for.

But why kid ourselves with this home-and-home series, pitting us as equals?

John Gardner, who was assistant sports editor at CU before he was dropped from the staff for something about a phone call to another college sports editor, sampled a few opinions at Creighton and found several that favored a once-a-year series.

This idea has merit. By billing such a contest more on the exhibition level than on the "regular competition" par, it may well satisfy both camps.

Playing it late in the season would enable both records and interest to build up and supply the enthusiasm needed for a big gate and an exciting contest.

Anyways, there's no harm in talking about it.

Snack Bar Brings Cafeteria Closing

It may be some time before OU coffee lovers become adjusted to the new snack bar location.

With all due respect for pastels, soft lighting, and proximity to geographical center, the well-worn path to the now quiet coffee and sandwich shop in the Administration Building still beckons.

Sure, the Student Center snack bar invokes "wows" and "oh-boys," and those previously stranded souls in the Applied Arts Building have asked, "When's it going to open?" for the last time.

Nevertheless, it doesn't seem natural to bypass the old paper cup dispensers.

The ex-snack room accommodated faculty members and students for many years. A few personnel, now associated with food preparation and serving, recall that the facility was in operation prior to 1946. Others say, "It opened before my time."

The changes resulting from growth and development of campus facilities have served to strengthen our esteem of Ouampland. In line with progress, traditional retreats have surrendered to new constructions.

And now, the grand finale: Administration Building snack bar bows out to Student Center.

Do You Think for Yourself?

(BLAST OFF ON THESE QUESTIONS AND SEE IF YOU GO INTO ORBIT*)

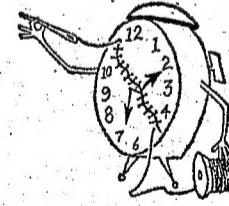

Do you believe that when a man insists on doing what he can do best, regardless of where he finds himself, he's (A) a valuable member of the community? (B) an independent spirit? (C) apt to be pretty silly?

A B C

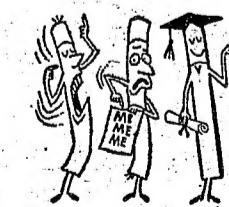

If you saw a fully clothed man about to jump into a river, would you (A) assume the fellow was acting and look for a movie camera? (B) dismiss the whole thing as a piece of personal exhibitionism? (C) rush to stop him?

A B C

Do you believe that "a stitch in time saves nine" is (A) an argument for daylight saving? (B) a timely blow against planned obsolescence? (C) a way of saying that when you use foresight you get along better?

A B C

In choosing a filter cigarette, would you pick one that (A) says it has a new filter? (B) merely says it tastes good? (C) does the best filtering job for the finest taste?
